

E-mail marketing for everyone

Communication is crucial for customer base growth and customer loyalty of any business. Nowadays internet is considered the key communication channel with email marketing being one of the most effective marketing methods available.

Many companies already use the power of email campaigns to communicate with their customers – sending newsletters, product offers, electronic magazines or just notifications about completed transaction on eshop, registration or account updates. Email marketing is not just about mass mailing, but most importantly about measuring effectivity of the emails sent and building better customer relations.

Based on the requirements and know-how of email marketing specialists, we have built highly sophisticated system for email marketing – from creating of the campaign, mailing-list management and delivery to extensive reporting of campaign success. We call it Mailkit.

Mailkit email marketing tool

- Allows easy management of email campaigns
- Does automated email processing
- Provides detailed reports

Start your email marketing in four easy steps:

1. Compose your email
2. Create mailing-list
3. Schedule delivery
4. Analyze reports

More power to your emails

